

King Residence is Awarded First Prize

As Best Decorated Home in the City—Judges in Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation Prize Contest Make Final Awards—Other Beautifully Decorated Homes.

Three competent judges picked the residence of Charles W. King at 14 Elizabeth street as the best decorated home in the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation Christmas lighting contest Monday night when they toured 30 miles throughout the city in a smooth-riding, eight cylinder touring automobile of the Southard & Beichert sales agency on a final inspection trip.

The King home was chosen for its uniformity and striking modernistic artistic scheme. It stood out as a real work of art, well planned by skillful hands and was novel in every respect.

Secondary Prizes

Homes that came next to the King residence in the contest were those of Mrs. Elizabeth G. Walter, 64 German street; Eugene Cornwell, 19 Green street and Richard Obenaus, 69 Green street.

The judges were Harry Halverson of Teller & Halverson, architects; M. I. Peck, electrical inspector of the Underwriters' Association and Police Commissioner Clarence S. Rowland. Commissioner Rowland took the place of Mayor Edgar J. Dempsey, who was too busy at the city hall, getting things ready for the new year, to make the tour of inspection.

Best in Each Ward

Homes picked as the best decorated in the various city wards were as follows:

A. E. Rose, 20 Maiden Lane, first ward.

W. E. Alexander, 169 North Manor avenue, second ward.

George Rhymer, 38 Shufeldt street, third ward.

E. P. Steinert, 126 East Chester street, fourth ward.

M. E. Fitzgerald, 49 Ponckhockie street, fifth ward.

Robert Rhinehart, 99 Hasbrouck avenue, sixth ward.

Mrs. Elizabeth G. Walter, 64 German street, seventh ward.

A. W. Buddenhagen, 53 Montrose avenue, eighth ward.

G. Albertson, 59 Andrew street, ninth ward.

Fred Church, 23 Prospect street, tenth ward.

Honorable Mention

Honorable mention was given the following contestants:

Clarence Hendricks, 103 Albany avenue.

V. A. Gorman, 184 Albany avenue.

A. H. Gildersleeve, 91 North Manor avenue.

Benjamin Rhymer, 421 Albany avenue.

W. A. Alexander, 169 North Manor avenue.

Sam Williams, 76 Derrenbacher street.

Frank L. Brown, 392 Clifton avenue.

George Rhymer, 38 Shufeldt street.

James Noble, 110 Third avenue.

George Leyher, 86 Abrynn street.

Harry Conklin, 44 Crane street.

William C. Hiltbrand, 24 President's Place.

William Fardee, 66 German street.

J. D. Schoonmaker, West Chestnut street.

Horace Maxon & F. Knappen, 45 and 47 West O'Reilly street.

W. Haines, 65 Hoffman street.

Frank Southard, 116 Henry street.

H. R. Brigham, 729 Broadway.

Ward B. Everett, 141 Wall street.

Eugene Cornwell, 19 Pine street.

Leonard Davis, 113 Pine street.

Henry Hoffman, 217 Washington street.

Eugene Winer, 143 Hurley avenue.

The homes of N. D. J. Murphy, 9 Andrew street and Oscar Siskler, 146 East Chester street were to be considered by the judges but as the decorations were not illuminated when the official call they could not be passed upon. Both the Murphy and Siskler homes were admired on nights that the decorations were flooded with lights.

A number of cars started out behind the Viking carrying the judges when it left the Southard & Beichert showroom at Broadway and Field street but the officials lost the parade owing to a fire that tied up traffic in the vicinity of Henry and Fair streets.

The 30-mile tour of inspection ended at the D. Winter restaurant, 553 Broadway, where the judges and Joseph P. Beichert of the Southard & Beichert Oldsmobile agency, who drove the officials through the city in the Viking, were luncheon guests of Edward C. Dawe of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation.

Certificates entitling winners to prizes will be mailed out by the Central Hudson Corporation soon. Those who receive them will tender them for their choice of electrical fixtures from the William Davis Electric Co., Inc., or Canfield Supply Company. A list of the prizes to be given was published in The Freeman on Monday evening, December 23.

Furnace Ashes Cause of Fire

Fire was discovered in the house of Reuben Arlinsky at 70 Fair street shortly before 8 o'clock Monday evening. The fire was located in the cellar near the furnace room and when discovered was blazing briskly. An alarm sent in from box 76 called out the fire department and the fire was quickly extinguished. The loss from fire was slight but there was some damage by smoke.

Flames spread to the timbers of the basement ceiling and out through a window to the outside of the house. Damage by water was very slight and was confined to the basement.

The fire may have been started by hot ashes from the furnace which had been dumped into a can under a shelf on which was stored paper. Irving Krum and Nick Pappos occupied apartments in the house. The fire was first discovered when the lights in the place suddenly went out.

Boy of Four Tells Story of Shooting

Donnie Schroeder, Aged Four, Says Mother Shot Corporal Brady Paul Near New Castle.

Bellaire, Ohio, Dec. 31 (AP)—Chief of Police Francis Moran today announced that Donnie Schroeder, 4, had told him that his mother, Mrs. Irene Schroeder, had fired the shot which killed Corporal Brady Paul, of the Pennsylvania State Highway Patrol, near New Castle, Pa., last Friday.

Pennsylvania state police and Pittsburgh detectives took Donnie Schroeder to Pittsburgh for further questioning.

Chief Moran said the lad gave a very concise description of the shooting and named two men known as Glenn Dugan and Tom Crawford, a brother of his mother, as their companions.

Ernest Moore, state highway patrolman, who was wounded in the exchange of shots, told Chief Moran that Donnie was the child seen in the automobile.

Chief Moran found the lad last night at an uncle's home and took him to police headquarters for questioning. The uncle, Ray Schroeder, Bellaire, and the child's maternal grandfather, Joseph Crawford, also were taken for questioning.

Paul was shot down by a woman who was accompanied by a small boy and two men. Mrs. Schroeder was not found in Bellaire. The child was located through a picture of Ray Schroeder which police said they found on the seat of an automobile abandoned by the killers after the duel with state police. Pennsylvania officers are convinced Ray Schroeder had no connection with the crime.

Charges Against Seven Guardsmen

New London, Conn., Dec. 31 (AP)—Seven Coast Guardsmen were under arrest and several others were on report today with an inquiry being made into the theft of liquor by guardsmen from the Flor-Del-Mar, a rum runner seized Saturday night with 4,000 cases aboard.

The investigation into the theft was ordered by Captain L. T. Chalkley, Chief of Staff, after a rooming house brawl in which a sailor attached to the submarine base and a guardsman were brutally assaulted. The seven Guardsmen were arrested by Coast Guard officials and face court martial.

The Flor-Del-Mar was unloaded Sunday night, having been towed to the port here earlier in the day. Many cases of liquor had been broken on the boat because of an explosion, and thefts were easy.

To prevent further thefts, extra guards with sidearms were placed on the state pier last night. Powerful lights played throughout the night on the rum ships seized by Coast Guardsmen over the weekend.

Captain Chalkley also ordered all patrol boats and destroyers searched and said that a few cases of liquor had been found on one of the destroyers.

Our Growing Population.

A son, Bruce Campbell, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Decker of 124 Foxhall avenue on December 24 at the Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. DePay Anderson of New Paltz are the proud parents of a daughter, Joan Anderson, born December 27 at the Kingston Hospital.

60 To 80, Mostly Children, Perish In Theatre Fire

Were Watching Picture, "The Crowd", When Flames Burst From Operator's Box—150 Children Suffer Burns and Injuries.

Fairfax, Scotland, Dec. 31 (AP)—Between sixty and eighty persons, most of them children, were officially estimated to have perished in a fire which swept through a motion picture theatre here crowded with youngsters on a holiday matinee.

The panic of the children as they jammed the exits in a wild effort to flee the blazing flames within brought the death toll up until officials said that the number of victims would go over sixty and probably would be nearer eighty.

So great was the crush of struggling boys and girls, who only a few moments before had been watching a program which featured "The Crowd", to gain safety from the holocaust that firemen had the greatest difficulty in dragging them through the doorways.

Outside stood many parents, horror-stricken and helpless as firemen, constables and civilians repeatedly braved the flames to bring the young victims to safety.

Dense clouds of smoke came from the structure and it was necessary to use gas masks, some of them improvised.

The fire started in the operator's box and spread with terrifying rapidity through the crowded auditorium.

More than 150 children were taken to a nearby infirmary suffering from burns and injuries.

A constant stream of tram cars and wagons pressed into service arrived at the infirmary bearing the little victims, many dead and others in a comatose condition. All emergency measures were taken to care for the injured.

Many of the deaths occurred at the hospital where the victims of the rush and panic were cared. Most of those who succumbed at the infirmary died of deaths from injuries, chiefly internal, rather than from burns.

The theatre was filled to capacity and the film had told about half of the story of "The Crowd" when a sheet of flame shot out of the projection box. The sudden ending of the show turned all eyes to the operator's quarters and there was an immediate cry of "fire" from all sections of the house.

A wild rush started for the exits. The aisles were filled with struggling boys and girls who fought blindly to reach the doors.

But the doorway themselves were also quickly jammed. As those in front went down under the crushing pressure from the crowd in the rear, the victims piled themselves into struggling heaps.

It was this condition which confronted the firemen and constables when they reached the place. The rescuers fought grimly to disentangle the children and clear the way for those who were still held in the theatre. The task was made the more difficult by the crowding forward of parents who rushed to the scene as the alarm spread rapidly through the murky mill town.

Fortunately the fire itself did not spread to the theatre and after the place had been cleared it showed little trace of damage. Had the flames taken hold of the structure the death toll would have mounted into the hundreds because none of those imprisoned behind the jammed doorways could have escaped asphyxiation.

The theatre seats 750 persons. As today's performance was billed as a special holiday matinee for children, the house was fully occupied by youngsters of from five to 14 years of age.

ABDUCTED BY ARMED MAN AS SHE SAT IN AUTO.

Oakland, Cal., Dec. 31 (AP)—Grace Willett, 19-year-old girl who was abducted by an armed man as she sat in an automobile last night with her escort, Glen W. Grover, returned to her home early today after having been released.

Miss Willett said her abductor, after driving off with her in Grover's automobile, transferred her to his own car and then drove to another part of the city, where he attempted to attack her.

The girl said she resisted him and then he drove about town, finally releasing her several blocks from her home. She said she could not describe the man as he broke the dashboard lights in Grover's car in order to prevent her from seeing his face.

A general police hunt for Miss Willett was begun when Grover, a dental technician, reported that the girl had been kidnapped by an armed man who robbed him of a small amount of money and his automobile.

Kingston to Catskill Bus Line.

Beginning Monday, January 6, Klemm & Huber, proprietors of the Kingston-Saugerties bus line, will commence the operation of a through bus line from Kingston to Catskill making direct connections at Catskill for Albany with the Catskill-Albany bus line.

The Windshield Wiper Cost $15.

On a plea of guilty Pietro Orfio of East Kingston, town of Ulster, Monday received a fine of $15 imposed by Justice of the Peace Alexander Speers at Lake Katrine. He was charged with petty larceny in helping himself to a windshield wiper. Orfio paid the fine.

Supervisors Adjourn Sine Die

Unfinished Business, Including Item and Apportionment Report, Disposed of Before Adjournment.

The members of the Ulster county Board of Supervisors of 1929-1930 met at the rooms of the board in the court house on Monday afternoon, December 30, at 4 o'clock, and after transacting business adjourned sine die.

Roll call showed 24 present. The first matter was the reading of the annual report of Judge Joseph M. Fowler of the Children's Court. It was filed.

A communication from the State Department of Highways requested that an appropriation be made of $119.17, the county's share of cost of repairs to High Falls-Stone Ridge bridge, being 35 per cent, the total cost having been $340.50. It was filed and later by resolution of Supervisor Davis the amount was appropriated out of moneys in hands of county treasurer.

County Treasurer Thomas reported that 23 parcels of land at 1929 tax sale had been bid in by county at $4,835.40. Later on motion of Supervisor Simpson, it was ordered that the county treasurer turn over the amounts due the towns to reimburse same for back taxes out of funds he has collected with the ten per cent, he having over $5,000.

A communication from the board of supervisors of Genesee county requested that the Ulster county board pass a resolution similar to one adopted by Genesee, protesting against a change that had been made in the highway law pertaining to state and county highways and petition legislature to restore law as it was. Filed.

A resolution was adopted that the provisions of the State Welfare Relief law be adopted so that relief funds can be chargeable back to Kingston city and towns.

A resolution by Supervisor Wilkin that the report of the committee on ratio and apportionment be accepted and the several tax rates as determined in the report be fixed and adopted as the tax rates for the levy of taxes in the respective tax districts. Adopted, ayes, 21; noes, 3. Supervisors Markle, Rippert and Shults voted in the negative.

Supervisors Stanbrough, Lyons and Rippert offered a resolution, which was adopted, that the tax rolls of the towns be adopted and delivered to the respective collectors on or before December 31, 1929. Ayes, 21, noes, 3. Supervisors Markle, Rippert and Shults.

Supervisors Schick, Edgar Rowe and Freer offered a resolution that was adopted that the district attorney be empowered to draw upon the court and jury fund $1,500 to be used during year 1930, for the miscellaneous expenses of said office.

Supervisors Stanbrough, Lyons and Rippert offered a resolution that payments to needy blind be continued during 1930, and payable monthly out of funds heretofore appropriated in hands of county treasurer, it being necessary under the law to adopt similar resolution continuing payments each year.

Supervisor Elwyn offered a resolution that there be appropriated $1,000 to be paid to county treasurer out of which to pay probation officer of the county. Adopted.

Several bills that were pronounced correct and a legal charge against the county were read and ordered paid. Among them were the usual dog bills.

Supervisor Feeter moved, after Clerk DeWitt and Chairman Davis announced that the calendar of the 1928-1929 session had been exhausted, that the board adjourn sine die, which motion was carried.

PREDICT NOISY NEW YORK'S EVE IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Dec. 31 (AP)—Predicting a noisier, more boisterous welcome of 1929 than has been enjoyed by any of its recent predecessors, hotel and restaurant managements today prepared to entertain thousands of New Year's Eve celebrants.

Police Commissioner Grover A. Whelan announced that the curfew will drop down to the bare of jazz, tin horns and other noise makers in night clubs promptly at 3 a. m. Wednesday. Hotels, which are immune from restrictions advertised "dancing until dawn," cover charges will run as high as $29 a person.

Radio listeners may hear the New Year chimes as early as 7 p. m. eastern standard time, tonight, when because of the difference in time it will be midnight in London and the peals of Big Ben, jammed in the tower of Parliament Building, will be radio-cast across the Atlantic and rebroadcast throughout this country.

Throughout the night special New Year's radio programs will include a series of concerts by dance bands playing from New York, Chicago, Denver, San Francisco and Sydney, Australia.

Watch services will be held in scores of churches throughout the city with many offering special music.

Killed by Falling Lamb.

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Dec. 31 (AP)—Cornelius Merritt E. Van Aernam of Saratoga county died today of injuries received during a steel storm on December 18. He was struck by a falling limb at his home. He was 50 years old and is survived by his widow.

Senator Borah Sends Letter To President

Washington, Dec. 31 (AP)—The contents of a letter on prohibition sent to President Hoover by Senator Borah today were closely guarded secret; while official Washington turned to speculation on the nature of the Senator's latest contribution to the present bitter controversy.

The communication was regarded as climaxing Borah's participation in the current discussion in the course of which he has issued two denunciatory statements arraigning the federal personnel to which prohibition is entrusted and had discussed the situation personally with the Chief Executive.

The White House announced that the letter had been received late yesterday with the added statement that it would not be made public and that thus far no reply had been drafted.

In his previous statements, the Idahoan, who was one of Mr. Hoover's most prominent campaigners, asserted the failure of prohibition enforcement; lay with those charged with making the law effective and that with the present personnel "from top to bottom" nothing could be done.

One view of the letter to the President was that it contained evidence of liquor law violations which had come to Borah's attention. In this connection it was recalled that when Senator Howard, Republican, Nebraska, made charges of non-enforcement of the prohibition statutes in the District of Columbia and asserted that the responsibility lay with Mr. Hoover, he was requested by the White House to submit evidence supporting his charges with the promise that it would be thoroughly investigated.

Discovers Land At Antarctica

Monterideo, Uruguay, Dec. 31 (AP)—The first fruits of Sir George Hubert Wilkins' exploration flights over Antarctica were revealed here today with advice he had discovered previously unknown land in his last venture over the Polar ice cap.

The government radio service announced receipt of a message to this effect from the steamer Melville, which carried the explorer to Deception Island, which he uses as a base. Details were not given.

Since Deception Isle, one of the South Shetland Group, is in the so-called Weddell Quadrant of Antarctica it is believed probable the new territory is somewhere in the vicinity, or south of, Tierra Del Fuego and the Argentine.

About a third of the way round the world in nearly the same latitude Rear Admiral Byrd and his party recently have made important South Polar explorations, completing a flight over the South Pole, and discovering new land to the east of the Ross Quadrant at Antarctica.

Nearly another third of the way round the world, to the east of Deception Isle, the Norwegians, Captain Riser Larsen and Lieutenant Luetzow Holm, radioed early this week they had discovered new land in the Enderby Quadrant, midway between Coats Land and Enderby Land.

With the exception of discoveries of Rear Admiral Byrd the new lands are believed to be along the fringe of Antarctica.

Lowman Defends Coast Guard

Washington, Dec. 31 (AP)—Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition, in a statement today said the killing of three smugglers and wounding of a fourth at Newport, Sunday, was "unfortunate but unavoidable" and that the smugglers, having defied the government, "have no one to blame but themselves."

The assistant secretary said that because of the New Year's demand smugglers were making unusual efforts to land liquor along the Atlantic coast.

The customs service, he continued, knows how much liquor is leaving the base of supply at St. Pierre, a French possession off the Canadian coast, and added that the amount has been seized is "very gratifying."

Lowman complimented the coast guard upon its work and said it "had done well."

FORMER TROOPER DONATES $45 TO CONFERENCE FUND

Albany, Dec. 31 (AP)—New York state's reverence from contributions unofficially known as the "conference fund" was increased by $45 received today by Comptroller Morris S. Tremaine, accompanied by the following letter:

"Enclosed please find $45 in cash, which please contribute to the New York state conference fund, for value received while enlisted in Troop K, New York State Troopers, a police organization, and oblige.

"Conscience."

Report of Work In The Children's Court

Judge Fowler Submits Report of Activities of the Children's Court of Ulster County to Board of Supervisors—Number and Variety of Cases Increased.

To the Board of Supervisors of Ulster County, Gentlemen:

Permit me to submit the following report of the activities of the Children's Court of Ulster county for the period beginning November 15, 1928 and ending December 1, 1929.

The number and variety of cases brought before this court have steadily increased from seventy-four formal cases in 1926 to one hundred fifty-four cases during the past year. The policy of the Children's Court Act, precluding the public hearing of all cases involving charges of delinquency and neglect affecting the welfare of children under sixteen years of age, has been continued. By reason thereof the court has been afforded the opportunity of serving the community in many ways through cases which would not, otherwise have come to its attention.

It is a source of encouragement and genuine satisfaction to realize that the improper, unsuitable or bad home conditions of many neglected children have been corrected and that many potential, "bad boys", having been checked at their first step toward delinquency, are developing, under competent and kindly supervision, into boys of whom any community might justifiably feel proud. Thus the court, freeing these children from the stain of a public record of criminal offenses and deciding each case from the viewpoint of the welfare of the child and of the community, has been afforded an excellent opportunity for the development of good citizenship.

Cases brought before this court are classified either as formal or informal. The so-called formal cases are those wherein a written complaint or petition is filed or a summons or warrant issued. The informal cases are those which are disposed of by conference or correspondence.

The statistics of the year's work follow:

Formal Cases.

There were 154 formal cases presented during the year which involved 210 children of whom 146 were boys and 64 were girls. Of the 146 boys, 89 were charged with delinquency and 57 were neglected, the charges being as follows:

Charge	No. of Boys	Total
Stealing	18
Truancy	5
Unmanageable and beyond control	4
Act of carelessness or mischief	37
Injury to person	5
Unlawful entry	12
Running away from home	1
Violation of City Ordinance	3
Violation of Motor Vehicle Law	4
	89
Neglected Boys
Improper conditions in home	4
Insufficient parental care	15
Financial need	84
Abandoned	2
Abuse or cruel treatment	2
	107
	146

Of the 64 girls above noted, 18 were delinquent and 46 neglected. The tabulation of the charges being:

Charge	No. of Girls	Total
Stealing	2
Truancy	7
Unmanageable and beyond parental control	3
Running away from home	2
Moral delinquency	4
	18
Neglected Girls
Improper conditions in home	5
Insufficient parental care	14
Financial need	26
Abandoned	6
Question of custody	1
	52
	64

Total number of girls involved 64
Total number of boys involved 146
Total children 210

The analysis of the judgments of this court in the above-noted cases is as follows:

Disposition of Formal Cases	Boys	Girls
Judgment
Restitution or reparation ordered	11	1
Fine imposed or payment of costs ordered	2	1
Discharged with a warning	20	5
Placed on probation	14	1
Committed to private child placing agency	7	8
Committed to city institution for dependent children	1	1
Committed to private institution for dependent child	1	1
Committed to State Inst. for delinquent children	8	7
Committed to private inst. for delinquent children	1	2
Committed to institution for feeble-minded	1	1
Committed to institution for physically handicapped	4	1
Child returned home	28	11
Dismissed	7	9
Father ordered to support	19	13
Ordered to report for medical attention	2	3
Referred for criminal prosecution	1	1
Totals	146	64

Informal Cases.

During the year there have been a number of complaints against children which have been disposed of summarily. These complaints most frequently arose from mischief, children annoying older people, using improper language, abuse or attack upon others and annoyance of other children. Ordinarily, in these cases, no summons was issued but the matter disposed of by letter or after a conference with the parent. In such cases when the complaint is of a more serious nature a record is kept for future reference upon the further complaint, if any, against the child.

These cases were 52 in number and involved 24 boys and 15 girls charged with delinquency and 5 boys and 5 girls said to be neglected.

Respectfully submitted,
JOS. M. FOWLER,
Judge of the Children's Court of Ulster County.

A QUESTION of HONOR

by Ruth Cross

After a pause, he thought of Miss Wilmet. "Should I inquire now, sir?"

"Do so," he commanded.

"A party by the name of Morse Crism," Morse smiled. That was his own idea exactly, only he hadn't given it the literary flavor.

There were two things less Morse wanted now as he had never wanted anything in his life. The first was Anne Wilmet. The second was a line of track between Kansas City and the great northwest which would shorten the present schedule by 12 hours. The former was to be had, doubtless, but not yet on his own terms.

The latter had presented unforeseen difficulties—an upstart irrigation company with a title to the right-of-way which was the key to his projected line of track—a pig-headed young engineer in charge who refused to be tricked, bullied or intimidated.

Well, there were several cards he had yet to play before he would take the irrigation company seriously—Douglas, for one. Douglas was his attorney and confidential aid whom he had sent to Sacramento to obtain an understanding with an underpaid legislature.

Douglas should be here now, he thought as he casually picked up

MR. MONTE CRISTO

THE lodge sprawled like a huge brown barnacle, snuggling itself along the mountainside.

Its rough logs, weather-blackened shingles, and rustic porches merged into the brown green of encircling rock and shrub and fir tree. A sketchy uneven road ended abruptly at the front steps.

Two days before it had stood, desolate in its abandonment. Then it had been metamorphosed and revitalized by a magic wand, waved by Leon Morse. Its exterior was still in perfect harmony with its wild and rugged surroundings but its interior was stamped with the mark of luxury.

There were several cards he had yet to play before he would take the irrigation company seriously—Douglas, for one. Douglas was his attorney and confidential aid whom he had sent to Sacramento to obtain an understanding with an underpaid legislature.

Douglas should be here now, he thought as he casually picked up

The rough log lodge blended into the background of the lofty Sierras.

In the great living room, Jarvis unwrapped countless packages that had been brought from town by buckboard. Books, magazines, dozens of them, chocolates, French bonbons and phonograph records. Armfuls of hot house flowers were spread before the butler.

He pressed an electric button and a pretty French maid responded. The bundles of flowers he placed in her arms. "Delphine, these are for Miss Wilmet's rooms," he explained.

"Mon dieu," she breathed. "What am I to do with him? Mademoiselle's rooms, they are already—how do you say—like one house on fire?"

"You mean hot house no doubt," Jarvis corrected.

Jarvis was starting to sort the mail, when the door at the end of the room opened and Morse entered.

Jarvis bowed profoundly and earned a curt "good morning" from his master.

"Mr. Douglas hasn't come back yet?" he asked as he glanced down the road through the chintz curtained window.

"No, sir," Jarvis replied.

Morse drummed lean, nervous fingers impatiently against the window pane. It irked him to wait. He took out his watch. It was twelve o'clock.

"Has Mrs. Wilmet come down yet?" he inquired.

"No, sir."

"And Miss Wilmet?" he appended casually.

"No, she has not come down. Shall I inquire, sir?"

"Presently—and, oh, by the way, Jarvis, all this so far as I have seen, very good indeed." With his hand he took in, in one sweep the beautiful, spacious room with its multiplicity of windows, great fireplace, fine skins and rugs that covered the floor completely, and the grand piano.

The old man bent his head in dignified recognition. "I'm glad you're pleased, sir. The Frisco decorator didn't think it could be done in 10 days but I said to him, 'begging your pardon sir, if you work for Mr. Morse you've got to be able to turn a hollow stump into an Aladdin's palace over night if he says so.' I says 'Did you ever hear tell of a party by the name of Monte Cristo? Well, that's the way Mr. Morse is used to having things done for him.'"

Morse smiled slightly—otherwise ignoring the tribute. "The servants are all here, I suppose?"

"Yes, sir. I brought them out myself, day before yesterday."

As he spoke Mrs. Wilmet came downstairs with her usual aristocratic leisureliness. She was the picture of a plump, white-haired, grandmotherly old patrician. Her soft and rather full mouth hardened as she took in the significance of Morse's phrase. "You say Anne has gone out—alone—after you expressly asked her not to?"

Morse nodded. At a slight sign of dismissal, Jarvis vanished. Morse drew up a chair for Mrs. Wilmet and after an exchange of pleasantries, sat down near her.

"I want to speak very seriously to you," he began. "I want you to try to impress upon your niece that it is dangerous for her to go to the mountains alone. The country is overrun with the irrigation company's workmen and our own—a lot of low class trash."

He broke off abruptly as the door opened and Douglas entered.

The two men faced each other for a moment in silence, then Morse made a slight inquiring movement. The attorney, a stocky, shrewd-eyed man of considerably less than his employer's height, shook his head. The other frowned and signed to his study at the end of the room. Then Morse excused himself and a moment later, the door of the study closed upon them.

Sore Throats

and Coughs

Quickly Relieved by the Safe Prescription

Here's a doctor's prescription that is really throat insurance. Sore or irritated throats are relieved and soothed almost instantly with the very first swallow. About 90% of all coughs are caused by an irritated throat; consequently for most coughs too there is nothing better than this famous prescription—it goes direct to the internal cause. It is put up under the name Throxine and is guaranteed to stop coughs and relieve sore throats in 15 minutes or your money will be refunded. Singers and speakers find Throxine very valuable.

The remarkable thing about Throxine is that while it relieves almost instantly, it contains nothing harmful, is pleasant tasting and safe for the whole family. Ask for Throxine 25c., 50c., and $1.00 bottles. Sold by Kingston Central Pharmacy and all other good drug stores.

Christmas at
TB. Hospital

On Monday afternoon at four o'clock those patients of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital who were well enough to do so gathered on the upper porch of the hospital for the annual Christmas festival. The very pretty indoor tree, the gift of Mr. Garbarino, was lighted and before the exercises came to an end the handsome tree in front of the hospital, out of doors, burst into beautiful Christmas lights.

This year—the twentieth that there has been a similar celebration at the camp and later the hospital—the program was given by Robert Williams, organist and choir master of St. John's Episcopal Church, and eighteen of the choir boys, including some of the older boys. It was one of the loveliest and best enjoyed programs ever given to make glad and happy the patients at this hospital.

Mrs. C. N. Reed, in charge of the festival, introduced Mr. Williams and the boys to the patients, announcing the program as follows: First, four Christmas carols, which the boys sang beautifully, "O Come All Ye Faithful," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "Silent Night, Holy Night," and "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

It was very evident that Mr. Williams and the boys believed that when one wished another "Merry Christmas," it was a good idea to furnish some of the merriment, and this Mr. Williams, John Quant and Robert and Arthur Hazenbush did, right joyfully in a very funny little white-faced minstrel skit that kept the patients in gales of laughter, than which there is no better medicine.

This tremendously appreciated program came to a close with two fine cornet solos by Robert Hazenbush, accompanied by Mr. Williams.

After thanking Mr. Williams and the boys in behalf of the patients, Mrs. Reed said that before she gave her usual little Christmas talk, she wished to say that it was very gratifying to have with them for the celebration Philip Elting, whom she felt sure she could tell the patients would do all in his power to make it possible for them to be spared another Christmas in the old, dilapidated hospital and to have ready for such as might need it the new hospital for next year's Christmas festival. The statement was enthusiastically applauded by all present, the nurses and attendants as well as the patients.

After extending the greetings of the people of Kingston and telling of the good wishes sent with the gifts to all those so unfortunate as to be obliged to spend their holidays at the hospital, Mrs. Reed gave a very short Christmas talk, and then asked for Miss Ward, superintendent nurse.

Quite surprised, Miss Ward responded to her name and Mrs. Reed told her that there were many friends in Kingston besides the hospital patients and those who helped at the hospital who fully appreciated all that she had and was doing, not only for the comfort but good cheer of the patients. When it was impossible to relieve suffering, Mrs. Reed said it was certain that Miss Ward felt keenly the "Cross" in her "Rosary," and so these friends wished to give her a little offering of peace that she would only good wishes from all, and saying this, Mrs. Reed thanked a short procession of about thirty people about Miss Ward's neck. Touched deeply, Miss Ward expressed her gratitude for the gift and the friendly appreciation.

Then came the distribution of the gifts to the patients, nurses and attendants. Dr. Crispin, the surgeon, and Miss Kress the vocational teacher assisting Mrs. Reed with the Santa Claus party were taken to and from the hospital by Miss Lillian Hugelweide.

Among those present were: Mr. Hinton, Dr. Van, Mrs. Sam, Harrison, and Dr. Crispin. There was just one very real regret, that not one of the county supervisors, nor Judge Robinson accepted the special invitation sent to them to be present at the entertainment.

It was the earnestly expressed hope that never again would it be necessary for tubercular people of Ulster county to celebrate the birthday of the little Christmas in such forlorn and inadequate quarters.

Those who assisted in various ways in preparing the gifts, etc., for the Christmas festival of the T. B. Hospital were: Mrs. Sidney A. Clapp, Miss Helen Brown, Miss Josephine Vallette, George Sullivan, State of New York National Bank.

Gifts sent to Mrs. Reed for hospital were: a handsome candy dish from Mrs. George Honness; two pounds of Christmas sweets, contributed from Ingham Barrows, of Great Neck, Long Island; candy from Mrs. Wetherham; Miss Newland, two gifts; Mrs. J. Adick, a wool cape and three wool scarves knitted sent from Mrs. Deputy Hutchinson, and woolen garment gloves from Mrs. Minnie Simmons; Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Lammiman, a year's subscription to the Saturday Evening Post.

Those who contributed money toward the purchase of gifts of various sorts, presented at this time were:

Mrs. John Forsyth, Twentieth Century Club, Mrs. E. G. Adams, Mrs. Charles Terwilliger, Mrs. Pauline and Mrs. T. V. R. Brown, Mrs. George Honness, A. Friend, Miss Scute, Mrs. J. G. Van Etten, Charles C. Ten Broeck, Esther C. Fessenden, Mrs. Lucile Doty, Miss Wood, Mrs. Charles Hoffman, Dorothy and Doris Fronsfield, Mrs. Slauson, Mrs. John N. Cordis, Mrs. Wolff, Mrs. Anderson Carl, A. Friend, Mrs. I. J. Rose, Mrs. W. M. Davis, Mrs. Harry P. Dodge, Mrs. Weston, Court Santa Maria, C. D. of A., Miss Adelaide E. Main, Miss Fannie R. Main, Mrs. W. J. Cranston, Mrs. Van Dyke Basten, D. & D., Mr. Dixon, Mrs. W. Simmons, Mrs. Grover Lasher, Little Card Club, Mrs. W. C. Dutton, Mrs. L. Horvath, Mrs. J. E. Houser, Miss Hattie Safford, Miss Manning, Mrs. D. N. Mathews, Mrs. G. N. Wood, Miss Idella Hyde.

With the money so received each patient received a nice gift of some article asked for, as all were requested to do. The nurses and Miss Ward, the superintendent nurse and the help were all remembered in a subscription for the New York Daily World and one for the New York Daily Tribune for 365 days were given as were four new player-piano books and four new Victoria records. Each patient received a nice new two-dollar bill and the sum of $44 was left over to be placed in the patients' Welfare Fund, which brought joy to all of the patients, since with this fund materials were purchased for the handcraft department, or for other emergency needs of the patients during the year.

AT THE THEATRES

Today.

Kingston: "Rio Rita" as great as the musical comedy of the same name. Great singers, great actors and beautiful settings. Well worth seeing.

Broadway: "Tanned Legs," one of those things where the younger daughter teaches older sister and mother and father something, but not much.

Orpheum: "Madame X," a revival of one of the greatest pictures of the screen. Ruth Chatterton and Lewis Stone head a remarkable cast.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: Same.

Broadway: "The Lone Star Ranger," Zane Grey's first and "talkie" in which George O'Brien and Sue Carol bring back the days of six shooters and other things.

Orpheum: "Shannon," of Broadway. The Gleasons, famous comedy team, make a comedy talkie. Just a comedy.

Tonight, starting at 11, there will be a special New Year performance at all local theatres. The Kingston will present a special showing of "Rio Rita." The Broadway will show "The Lone Star Ranger," which will play for the remainder of the week. The Orpheum will present a special performance, "North of 40," a complete new show.

Spending

Children should be taught how to spend as well as to save. To know the value of money is the best check to wasteful spending and, therefore, teaches saving.

Miss Belle Van Wagenen visited in Kingston Thursday and Friday and enjoyed a lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Grant Young, Thursday and Friday her time was spent with Mr. and Mrs. Luther Van Wagenen and son, C. S. Van Wagenen. Mr. and Mrs. George H. Gheer of Ithaca spent Christmas with his father, George Gheer, Sr. The children's festival of St. John's Episcopal Sunday school held at the Parish House on Christmas eve was largely attended and very much enjoyed by all. The following program was rendered and much credit is due the children in rendering their parts. "Merry Christmas"—Raymond Schoonmaker. "If Santa Was My Pa"—Lucille Wells. "A Well Spoken"—Robert La Polt. "Sing a Song of Christmas"—Florence Christians. "A Christmas Wish"—Clayton Sutton. Solo—"Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star" and "Up on the House-Top"—Doris Fine. "Merry Christmas"—Ernest Christians. "A Hope"—Orabelle Smith. "If Santa Came in Summer-time"—Robert Sutton. "The Babe of Bethlehem"—Margaret Schoonmaker. "Merry Christmas"—Carlton Wells. "A Dream"—Charles La Polt. Following the recitations and solo came the Christmas cantata, "The Story of a Christmas Gift." Time, a early Christmas eve, part one; Christmas morning, part two; Place, living room in the home of the Millers. Characters: Mr. Miller, Clyde Brown; Mrs. Miller, Gertrude Calderwood; Mary, Winifred Smith; Helen, Hanton Smith; Rebecca, Ellen Arrington; daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Betty; Frances, Pina; younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Jane; Mary Lu, Hodges.

an orphan living in a home; group of young people—Margaret Schoonmaker, Robert Sutton, Florence Christians, Orabelle Smith, Charles LaPolt, Carlton Wells; angels—Margaret Schoonmaker, Orabelle Smith, Florence Christians. The choruses were sung by the children and the solo parts by Margaret Schoonmaker, Mary Lu Hodges, Clyde Brown and Mabel Smith. Much credit is due the pianist, Miss Evelyn Brown and Mrs. Hubert Smith in directing the children and making the festival a great success. The midnight service at St. John's Episcopal Church was largely attended. The church was beautifully decorated and the altar flowers were a gift of the Sunday school. The offertory anthem "And They Were Shepherds," by Wilson, was well rendered. The solo parts were sung by Miss Gertrude Calderwood, Miss Ellen Arrington and Hubert Smith. The services were conducted by the Rev. S. Glover Dunsmuir. Pupils and teachers are now enjoying a two weeks' Christmas vacation. School will reopen January 6. The following had a perfect attendance record for December: Harry May, Charles La Polt, Clyde Brown, Irving Feinberg, Tony De Pilla, Elsie Switkes, Hannah Smith, Mabel Smith, Mamie Grossman, Edna Kanestrin, Florence Ratner, Frances DePilla, Tillie Shane, Esther Shane, Harry Williams, Ethebert Van Kleeck, Robert Sutton, Clayton Sutton, Kelton Jansen, Delores Ayers, Florence Christians, Dorothy Ransom, Yetta Slavitska. The following have not missed a day this year: Clyde Brown, Charles LaPolt, Walter Duym, Delores Ayers, and Dorothy Ransom. The people of the community were entertained by a Christmas tree program Friday afternoon, December 20. The rooms were prettily decorated with hand-work made by the pupils. The tree held many gifts which appeared to delight those receiving them. The following program was rendered: Carol—"Greeting"—School. Recitation—"The Babe of Bethlehem"—Margaret Schoonmaker. Exercise—"Who Can Guess?"—Primary Children. Solo—"Santa Claus"—Edna Kanestrin. Recitation—"A Christmas Telephone"—Ruth May. Recitation—"Sharing Christmas Gifts"—Tony DePilla. MILTON.
Milton, Dec. 30.—Christmas morning, fifty Christmas baskets were distributed to the needy in this community by the Males and Matrons' Club. This great act of kindness is performed by this club every year and much credit is due them. This is not the only Christmas work this club does; flowers are sent to the sick and members are appointed each month to visit the sick and shut-ins. The work of this club is almost next to that of the Salvation Army and our people should be proud to have such an organization in this place. Considering the weather Saturday evening, there was quite a large attendance at the Christmas supper given by the Presbyterian Sunday school and members of the church. A beautiful supper was served to all, after which the following program was rendered in charge of Mrs. Edward Young and Mr. Oliver Kent: Hymn, "Town of Bethlehem"; recitation, Isabel Taber; recitation, Kathleen Kent; song, Mrs. DuBois's class; piano solo, Mirlam Sears; recitation, Frank Martin; recitation, Edward Martin; song, Mrs. DuBois's class; recitation, Betty Taber; piano solo, Mrs. Oliver Kent; recitation, Lila Barnes; recitation, Fannie Sears; recitation, Joyce Sears; song, "Onward Christian Soldiers"; song, "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean"; stunts songs. Candy was distributed to the children from a beautifully lighted Christmas tree. Among those who assisted at the supper were, Mrs. A. C. Jenkins, Mrs. Russell Martin, Mrs. W. R. Ordway, Mrs. P. A. Lyons, Miss Adeline Sears, Mr. and Mrs. Birdsall Taber, Thomas Jenkins. Mrs. Birdsall Taber was presented with a card table from the Ladies' Needlecraft Society. In appreciation of her kindness and help in the work of the society. Much credit is due all who through their faithful work made the evening as pleasant and entertaining as it was. Miss Florence Caverly of St. Luke's Hospital is spending her holiday vacation at the home of her mother, Mrs. Cornelia Caverly. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Breanu of Brooklyn are spending the holidays at the home of Mrs. Alice Crowell. Miss Bessie Scott of Vassar College is visiting her sister, Mrs. Clyde Miller. As a mark of courtesy to the Milton basketball team, Mr. Short of Highland will discontinue the Saturday evening games in this village, as coming on the same evening as the basketball games at the close of the two weeks' bill of movies will be resumed. Miss Ida Florence Woolsey left Sunday morning for Orlando, Florida, where she will spend the winter. Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson of Thompsonville, Conn., were holiday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Donaldson, Sr. Vincent Hickey of White Plains and sisters, Dorothy, of Newark, N. J., and Emily, of the Kingston Hospital, were holiday guests at the home of their father, Michael Hickey. Peter McManus, a student of Cornell College, spent the holiday at his home on the North Road. Mrs. C. S. White of Brooklyn spent Christmas with her sister, Mrs. Lawrence Brewster.

Floods Increase Through England

London, Dec. 31 (P).—Floods through England increased today as the full result of the deluge accompanying the week-end gale were felt. Wide areas were submerged, traffic hindered, and serious damage inflicted. In some sections the Thames rose rapidly, overflowing banks and forming a series of great lakes, blocking many roads. The rivers Severn, Wye, De, and Yorkshire and their tributaries overflowed their banks and submerged wide areas. Several villages in the city of York were inundated and the water there last night was rising an inch an hour. In many other towns in Yorkshire the water was from three to six feet deep, and Somerset and Cumberland in the north were among other districts suffering, a great number of persons being driven to upper floors of their homes. There was a cloudburst at Bangor in North Wales, streets were turned into rivers. The electric and gas plants were flooded and numerous houses and business premises swamped. Vessels reaching port from the west and south reported harrowing experiences with the gale over the week-end. Instinctive Fears There are two things which call out a fear response—a loud sound and a loss of support.

TODAY marks another great forward step in the history of the Ford car. For today the new Ford bodies will be officially introduced and a new beauty brought within reach of every one.

Take a little while today, therefore, to visit the showrooms of the nearest Ford dealer and see these beautiful new Ford bodies. Note the new roomy interiors, the new deeper radiator, the new hood and cowl, the new fenders, the new streamlines, the new wheels and tires, the Rustless Steel used for exposed metal parts—everything that contributes to this new beauty for the new Ford.

To outstanding mechanical performance, the new Ford now adds a new grace of line and contour. To motorists everywhere these new bodies are a further reflection of the Ford policy of constantly improving the car and of giving value far above the price . . . $435 up—f. o. b. Detroit

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

New York—City Justice Lippe must decide whether Jack Kearns is married or not. In an affidavit submitted in behalf of the sports promoter he avers a woman who is suing him is Miss Edith Angel. The woman has presented other affidavits in which he admits she is Mrs. Kearns and refers to her as Legna Kearns (Angel reversed). Kearns claims that a contract for payments of $500 a month was signed under duress.

Washington—A former baby of the White House is a bride. Mrs. Martha Harrison Williams, who lived with her parents in the White House during much of the administration of her grandfather, Benjamin Harrison, has married Robert Lewis Armstrong of Providence, R. I.

New York—With holiday greetings Ray Barbuti, Olympic 100-meter champion, is receiving congratulations on being a benedict, a fact which friends have just discovered. He was married last March to Miss Marian Sylvia Hecks, sister of Helen, the golfer.

Washington—Mrs. Pearl Peden Oldfield, member of congress, hopes man will continue to dominate government 100 years from now. "There are so many things a woman can do that a man can't," she explained. "Why not do them and let the men do what they can?" Mrs. Oldfield has decided not to seek re-election.

Madrid—Alfonso and Primo de Rivera know their automobiles. In different cars king and premier became entangled in traffic. Each got out, made signals, ordered cars hither and yon and soon had affairs running smoothly much to the relief of some distressed policemen.

New York—Big Cossacks have big appetites. George Mosioli, who runs a cafe, had his doorman, Alexander Matzloff, 6 feet 4, pinched for a disturbance. George said that at one sitting Alexander consumed six plates of soup, four steaks, a dozen rolls, a pound of butter and a quart of coffee. The case against the former soldier of the czar was dismissed on his promise to keep away from the restaurant.

Baltimore—The State Racing Commission has tabulated the total amount wagered through pari-mutuel machines this year at Pimlico, Laurel, Havre de Grace and Bowie at $54,419,686.50.

MUNICIPAL PROBLEM OF SUPERVISED PLAYGROUNDS.

Kingston, N. Y., Dec. 28, 1929.

To the Editor of The Freeman:

Dear Sir:

Will you kindly publish the enclosed copy of a letter, which I have received from the Secretary of the Playground & Recreation Association of America.

If there are any organizations in the city of Kingston that are interested in the municipal problem of supervised playgrounds for little children, where the discipline of the school period is continued during the summer months, and the health and character of our future citizens much benefited, will they please communicate with Mr. Braucher, so that the voice of Kingston may not be unrecorded at the proposed conference to be held in Washington?

As the accompanying letter is apparently a circular one which has been sent to other communities in New York state, they will also make responses, and the voice of Kingston should not be unheard.

Respectfully,

FRANCIS J. HIGGINSON, Playground and Recreation Association of America.

315 Fourth Ave., New York City, Dec. 23, 1929.

To the Recreation Chairman, President Hoover in his Annual Message to Congress announced that he is planning to call a nationwide conference on recreation. With reference to the Recreation Conference the Secretary of the Playground and Recreation Association of America has been asked "what fields should be covered by such a conference, how should it be organized, what groups should be represented."

It is important that the best thought of all interested in recreation be given to this problem. How can the President of the United States through a White House Conference give the greatest aid in building up the recreation movement in America? Working hours are constantly being "shortened." Spare time is increasing! Industrial leaders as well as educators are recognizing that it is of the greatest importance to the future of our country that adequate thought be given to the training of the boys and girls so that as they grow up they will have capacity to use wisely the spare time which will be coming to them in increasing measure.

What holds recreation back most in your community or in the communities you know? What can a White House Recreation Conference do to help?

Please send me your suggestions as early as possible.

Sincerely yours,

HOWARD S. BRAUCHER, Secretary.

GOOD THINGS OLD, NEW

HERE is a pudding that our grandmothers used to serve often:

Indian Pudding.

Mix one-half cupful of corn meal and one-fourth cupful of flour, one-fourth cupful each of molasses and sugar, one beaten egg, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful each of ginger and cinnamon, add slowly to one quart of boiling milk, stir until smooth. Pour into a baking dish adding one-half cupful of chopped suet and a handful of raisins. Bake slowly for three hours, stirring occasionally the first hour. Serve with a hard sauce or a lemon or orange sauce.

Uxbridge Lemon Pie.

Boil together one cupful each of sugar and water, add a tablespoonful of butter and thicken with one-half tablespoonful of cornstarch mixed with a little water. When cool, add two well beaten eggs, the juice and grated rind of one lemon and bake with two crusts.

Rhode Island Johnny Cakes.
Scald one cupful of corn meal (the water ground meal), add one teaspoonful each of salt, sugar and butter, then when it stiffens until it will just drop from a spoon add a little milk. Drop into smoking sausage fat and brown on both sides. Serve with sausage or bacon for breakfast cakes. Serve with syrup.

Flaked Crab Meat Fricassee.
Cook one small green pepper finely chopped in two small shallots and four tablespoonfuls of butter until lightly brown; add one and one-half cupfuls of crab meat and cook five minutes; add five tablespoonfuls of flour and when well mixed one and one-half cupfuls of chicken stock. Season with two tablespoonfuls of orange juice, two tablespoonfuls of lemon, one-half teaspoonful of paprika, with salt and pepper to taste. Just before serving, add one-third cupful of heavy cream and the yolks of two beaten eggs diluted with two tablespoonfuls of cream. Serve in timbale cases or in paté shells.

Popovers.
Beat two eggs, add one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful each of milk and water and one cupful of pastry flour. Add only half the liquid until the batter is beaten smooth; use an egg beater for the entire mixing. Bake in smoking hot gem pans twelve minutes.

Through a Woman's Eyes

By Jean Newton

WHAT WE SHOULD TEACH FUTURE WIVES

THE thought of this column reverts to that intriguing idea, which we hope will before long have developed beyond the embryonic state of a school to train women to be good wives.

I asked a woman of many years and much experience and the record, not of many marriages but of one eminently happy one, to tell me what she would teach in a school endowed for the purpose of turning out good wives, happy women, the wives of happy men.

"I should begin," she said, "by teaching the girls a sense of value in choosing the right man to make a choice worthy of their future efforts. I should teach them to choose a man, not for the cut of his coat and the way he can light a woman's cigarette, but for the lines of his chin and the way he treats his mother. I should urge them to put in the balance, not his steps on the dance floor but the gait with which he tackles a job. I should prepare them to observe how he looks at a pretty woman, if his smile then is clean, if there is in it something of reverence or if it's the other kind of a look.

"The fundamentals having been dealt with, I should encourage girls to give some thought to what a man likes in people and things as compared with what they like. Also, I should not count without value the thing called charm, which we should not have to describe because they will feel it—the real all-wool-and-a-yard-wide kind that manifests something from within. Above all, teach them to judge not in the light of the moon, but in the clear glare of all-revealing day.

"That may take some time, depending on how much of this kind of judgment a girl is born with. Some will come with no need at all of this preliminary training. They are the lucky ones. Others will come with a sense of values so distorted that you will almost despair of straightening them out. But I should persevere. For in that power of choosing soundly lies their first chance of a life's happiness.

"In a school for training wives we must of course have something of the prosaic requirements, that is those which to the eye of romance are prosaic and inconsequential, but which often prove of great consequence to the life of romance. The well-equipped wife, no matter how highly placed, should be familiar with every duty that goes into the making and keeping of a home—then she can with safety delegate the tasks, from creating an atmosphere of beauty in the home, to producing a good meal, to budgeting resources—so that the Lares and Penates may indeed be household gods and not demons—all that would be a part of the routine in training for wifehood.

"And now for the higher grades, the subjects upon which most depends, which extend into post graduate work, and in which we can always continue to learn. They are such subjects as understanding, give and take, consideration, tact, the sameness of self in the language of love, the joy of giving and where lies happiness. An important class would be that on human nature and its quirks and turns, and the real proposition of little spots on large natures. And last, but not least, if I had the School for Making Good Wives and Happy Women, I should teach my girls something of child psychology—for in no other way can they so well approach the psychology of men and husbands."

Open House at The Y. M. C. A.

Wednesday will be open house at the Y. M. C. A. as has been customary in past years, with the entire equipment open to the general public of Kingston.

The lobby and business office will open at 7 a. m. at which time the entire staff will be on hand to explain the work of the various departments. The public is most cordially invited to meet and talk with the staff, inspect the building and become acquainted in a general way with the Y. M. C. A.

At 10 there will be an open gym period for all boys of Kingston under the age of 16 years whether or not they are members. The class will be conducted by Physical Director Allen. Spectators will be welcome to witness this exhibition from the balcony.

Directly after lunch organized gym classes will be conducted for members. Boys will find the schedule for this posted at the association.

In the evening the Congregational-Methodist name will take place in the gym. This promises to be filled with excitement as the Redcoaters are last year's champions of the Sunday School League. The Redcoaters have hopes of attaining that title for this year.

Later in the evening a volley ball match is planned between two of the business men's teams.

The bowling alley under the direction of Harry Herd will be open from 7:30 and from 7-11. There will be a small charge for bowling; other activities in the building will be gratis. The program for the balance of the week is as follows:

Thursday, January 2

10 a. m.—Friendly Indian meeting and hike.

9—Student C gym class.

10—Student B gym class.

11—Student A gym class.

Friday, January 3

12:15—Business Men's gym class.

5:30—Business Men's gym class.

8:30—Scout gym.

7:30—Social for boy members with movies.

Saturday, January 4

9—Student C.

10—Student B gym class.

11—Student A gym class.

4—Finals in game room tournaments.

7—Employed boys gym class.

It is hoped that the usual large number will be present at the "open" house on New Year's day.

CELEBRATES TEN YEARS' SERVICE AT HOLY CROSS

Sunday, January 5, the Rev. Gregory Mabry will have completed ten years as rector of Holy Cross Church, Kingston. It was not long after the close of the war, in which he served as chaplain with the rank of major, that he was called to this parish and accepted the work. During his incumbency the organ has been rebuilt and placed in a new gallery over the vestibule, the exquisitely carved high altar and side altars and font canopy, all the work of Lualdi of Florence, Italy, installed, in addition to many other improvements that tend to make the interior of the church one of the most beautiful and devotional in the entire Hudson Valley. The renovation of the sacristy has but recently been finished.

From a faithful few who Father Mabry found at Holy Cross in 1920, the congregation now numbers 400 dependent upon him and his assistants for their spiritual ministrations. The parish guilds are active and help the priests in such work as is specified. Last year there were 700 Masses celebrated in the church in addition to other services and instructions. Bringing communion to the sick and shut-ins is almost a daily occurrence.

The program for next Sunday includes a corporate communion of the entire parish at 7:30 a. m., high Mass at 10:30, with sermon by the Rev. Father Huntington, O. H. C. of West Park. At 5 p. m. the wardens and vestrymen will tender Father Mabry a reception in the parish hall, at which addresses will be made by the Right Rev. Herbert Shipman, D. D., suffragan-bishop of New York; the Rev. William Pitt McCune, Ph. D., rector of St. Ignatius Church, New York, and Major A. S. Collier of Hudson, N. Y. Father Mabry's assistants are the Rev. R. S. Hornby and the Rev. Father Baldwin, O. H. C.

Great Outlook For 1930 in the World of Sport

New York, Dec. 31 (AP)—The old year, with all its thrills in sports, fades today before the new, with the promise that 1930 will furnish greater international rivalry, keener competition for the ruling champions, larger crowds, bigger and better arguments.

At the outset, one of the main debates left over from 1929 for settlement is the East-West gridiron feud, the finishing thrust of which will take place at San Francisco and Pasadena tomorrow. In these, the unbeaten University of Pittsburgh team and the Eastern All-Stars will seek to reverse the scales which already have been turned in the West's favor by Stanford's conquest of Army.

Two other items of unfinished business, bequeathed by the old year to the new are the case of Iowa, outcast of the Western Conference, and the selection of world's heavyweight boxing champion. The betting seems to be in favor of Iowa's ultimate reinstatement and the elevation of the Boston sailor, Jack Sharkey, to the post vacated in the summer of 1928 by Gene Tunney.

The first 1929 test for Sharkey is slated for Miami, February 2, with Tuffy Grims as a likely opponent. The final test, for the winner of this engagement, probably will be against Max Baer in June or September, but there still is some fear that the eliminations again may eliminate all the contenders.

By far the most spectacular outlook for the new year centers about the revival of international classics in golf, polo, yacht-racing and horse racing, in addition to such harry annuals as the Davis Cup contest.

In picturesque touches, the challenge of the famous Irish sportsman, Sir Thomas Lipton, for the million-dollar venture will find Lipton's Shamrock V seeking the classic for the first time in ten years in a series of races against the American defender to be sailed off Newport, starting September 12.

In competitive interest, the invasion of Britain's links again by Bobby Jones will be one of the year's high spots. Besides leading the American Walker Cup team, Jones will campaign all along the English golfing front, seeking to repeat his triumphs of 1926 and 1927 in the British open as well as to win the British amateur for the first time. At home, the great Georgian will defend the national open and try to regain the amateur title, now held by "Jimmy" Johnston, in one of the most strenuous seasons of the Jones era.

America's youthful polo forces will be rallied under the leadership of Tommy Hitchcock to meet the challenge of Great Britain after a three-year lapse. In addition, Argentina is sending a team of riders who will start their invasion on the Pacific coast. Horse racing has the prospect of a $100,000 international spectacle at Arlington Park, Chicago.

The Davis Cup war, so far as the United States is concerned, will be fought without Big Bill Tilden for the first time in ten years. Tilden's retirement leaves to youth the battle against France's well-fortified tennis ramparts. The French won without Lacoste in 1929 and they figure to keep the historic trophy for at least another year.

As Helen Wills Moody, the American queen of the world's courts, is expected to continue her tournament career, and Tilden, even though out of team play, will be a factor once more in the men's championships of France, England and the United States.

Connie Mack's Athletics, having crashed through to the world's championship of baseball after a long wait, figure to stick around the top in 1930. The Mackmen have the talent and equipment for a prolonged term at the peak, but the dethroned New York Yankees will be primed for a comeback under their new manager, Bob Shawkey. In the National League, the Chicago Cubs face formidable challenges for the pennant from Pittsburgh and New York. Altogether, 1930 should be an interesting baseball year, following shake-ups in the management of eight of the 16 league clubs.

The youthful talent was not quite good enough in 1929 to break down the barriers erected by many of the old-timers; not quite accomplished enough to remove the crowns adorning the aged brows of Ruth, Tilden, Walker, Hornsby, Hagen, Diessel and others.

Nineteen-twenty-nine closed the bright gridiron chapter of Red Cagle of the Army but the story book career of Abbie Booth of Yale has just begun. With all the sprightly grace of Little Abbie, Kid 1930 picks up the battle where Old Man 1929 left off.

HAVE TWO GAMES SCHEDULED FOR ONE NIGHT

The Y. M. C. A. Senior team will play the Redeemers at the Y court Wednesday night before they meet the fast Roamers in a contest at Epworth Hall. The Y team will test its endurance for the first time this season. It will just be another way of getting in shape for the Northeastern district tournament which will soon be held at Albany.

Y'S TO SEEK REVENGE FROM ROAMERS

Wednesday night at Epworth Hall the Roamers will play the Y. M. C. A. team. Great rivalry has developed between these two squads since the beginning of the season. The contest is scheduled to begin at 9 o'clock while the intermediates and the Southern High School will play the preliminaries at 8 o'clock.

REDEEMERS HAVE IMPORTANT GAME WEDNESDAY NIGHT

A Senior Sunday School League game will be the featured preliminary at the Y. M. C. A. court Wednesday night. The Redeemers will meet the

Safety First System Is Now Popular in Pugilism

The Tunney regime of "Safety First" boxing has made a memory of the million-dollar gate. In the prize ring, the more collisions between fists and chin, the better financially for all concerned, declares Ligu Magnolia, dean of American referees.

"The Kid Lavigne cared nothing for defensive fighting; the Terry McGovern held to the theory that the best defense was a vigorous and unrelenting offense. They fought leaping forward," asserts Magnolia in the Liberty Magazine. "Tunney is typical of the safety first system now popular. He stands in the middle of the ring, turning warily around as his opponent circles. His right heel is off the floor—but his weight is on the ball of his right foot, prepared for advance—but likewise, prepared for instant retreat! His left arm is extended, his right glove clenched against his right breast, ready to shoot across if an opening comes—but, likewise, ready to protect his chin against a left hook!"

"He is unmarked as he retreats from the ring. The Jack Dempseys swarmed all over their foes and stepped backward only when knocked backward. The public paid $100,000 to see Jack in action in nine short bouts. It paid $1,055,000 to see Jack, a beaten titleholder, trying a comeback against Jack Sharkey of Boston. It paid less than $500,000 to see Gene Tunney, the world's champion, defend his title against Heeney. Which proves rather conclusively, I think, what it is the public wishes—and what it is the public dislikes."

Pirates Sign Suhr

Gus Suhr, first baseman, who was sold by the San Francisco Seals of the Coast league to the Pittsburgh Pirates recently. The Pirates gave Earl Sheely and a purported sum of $30,000 in cash for Suhr, who dashed out 51 home runs and hit .381 playing in every game during the 1929 campaign. Suhr is a left-hand hitter.

Trained Athletes Cannot Withstand Sea Sickness

"There is a great deal of evidence of an interesting nature to prove that athletes who have devoted their lives to training are more susceptible to sea sickness than travelers who have occasionally or often taken a drink," writes Grant Dixon.

"I know Christy Mathewson, the great pitcher of the Giants, refused to make the trip around the world when John McGraw and Comiskey took the two ball teams on the globe circling expedition several years ago. The only reason he would not go was because he could not look at water without getting sea sick; and Sam Crawford, the old Detroit player, suffered so much that he almost died. Eddie Collins, when he was married, made a honeymoon trip to Bermuda and was so sick that he tried to come back by train and for a while, I believe, thought of living there."

Elberfeld Made Manager

Kid Elberfeld, veteran minor league pitcher, has been named manager of the 1930 Springfield Western association "farm" of the St. Louis Browns. Elberfeld succeeds Joe Mathes as pilot of the Springfield club. Elberfeld piloted the Little Rock club to the Southern association pennant a few years ago and is the man who sent "Big" Miller, world series hero, to the majors.

Probable Lineup East-West Game

San Francisco, Dec. 31 (AP)—Tentative starting lineups were announced today for the all star football game which will clash here tomorrow in the 25th annual East-West classic. An attendance of more than 50,000 is expected at the game.

Coaches Andy Kerr and Dick Hanley of the Eastern team announced their probable starting lineup as follows:

Ends—Booms, Dartmouth, and Tanner, Minnesota.
Tackles—Sligh, Purdue, and Truemy, Notre Dame.
Guards—Cannon, Notre Dame, and Gordon, Illinois.

Center—Erickson, Northwestern.
Quarterback—Peters, Illinois.
Halfbacks—Brazill, Detroit, and Glasgow, Iowa.

Fullback—Nagurski, Minnesota.
Coach Perry Lacey announced his tentative starting lineup for the Western team as follows:

Ends—Holmgren, Whitman, and Churchill, Oklahoma.
Tackles—Ackerman, St. Mary's, and Richards, Nebraska.
Guards—Schwarz, California, and Brumblow, Texas Christian.

Center—Segretti, St. Mary's.
Quarterback—Hunting, Gonzaga.
Halfbacks—Clark, Colorado College, and Sloan, Nebraska.
Fullback—Pomeroy, Utah.

The two coaches of the Eastern players have conceded the Western team the advantage in kicking, while the outstanding Eastern players make the odds on the outcome of the contest about even.

Last year the East defeated the West by 20 to 0.
The game is played annually and the proceeds go to the Shriners' hospital fund for crippled children.

Against Changing Football Rules

New York, Dec. 31 (AP)—The football rules will stand as they are if the National Football Coaches Association has its way.

By an informal vote of about four or five to one the coaches, meeting here in annual session yesterday, rejected three changes in the code recommended by the Association's Rules Committee, headed by Glenn Thistlethwaite, University of Wisconsin coach.

The most drastic change would have abolished the point after touchdown. Another suggested classifying penalties so that if two fouls were called on the same play, one was major and the other minor. Instead of the ball reverting to its original position the difference between the two penalties would be assessed.

The other proposed change would have given a team in possession of the ball within five yards of the sideline the option of putting it in play 15 yards from the sideline with the loss of a down.

Officers elected were: President, William A. Alexander, Georgia Tech; vice president, J. F. Meehan, New York University; second vice president, Clarence W. Spears, Minnesota; secretary-treasurer, W. H. Cowell, New Hampshire. Robert C. Zuppke, Illinois, Glenn S. Warner, Stanford, and J. R. Sutherland, Pittsburgh, were named to sit as an Advisory Committee with the Football Rules Committee.

Crescents Beat Lyceum Bowlers

At the Y. M. C. A. alleys Monday night the Crescents copped three straight games from the Lyceum team in a scheduled City League contest. Rice led the individual scorers with 201 and high average with 150. The Crescents took high game with 330. The score:

	Crescents.	Lyceum.

Spinny's to Meet Margaretville

Margaretville, one of the strongest teams in the mountains this year, will meet the Spinny Radio Five Thursday night in the Knights of Pythias Hall in Port Ewen. This Margaretville team has taken over some of the best teams in the district, but as yet they have not met the Port Eweners. Without a doubt it will be one of the best battles staged on the Port court this season.

Rumor has it that the mountain team expects to take over the Radio quintet, but let the game decide that. Johnny Johnson's squad is fast and has a defense that few teams can penetrate. It can find the hoop rapidly and its passwork is superb.

On the other hand Margaretville has been steadily fighting her way to recognition among the teams in this section of the state. The mountain boys have turned back some stiff opposition.

Sport Slants

By Allen J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)
A great record, beyond the slightest doubt, writes Cy Sherman, the sage of Lincoln, Neb., apropos of this column's recent summary of Notre Dame's football achievements under Professor Knute Rockne, "but you might mention that during the years set forth in this record, Nebraska played Notre Dame nine games, the count standing four to four plus the 1918 tie. The series of 11 games between the two schools ended in 1925, the count being five and five and one tie. In other words, Nebraska was alone in its ability to break even with Rockne-coached teams."

"Rockne's attitude," concludes Sherman, "has always been one toward Nebraska and it is today. But in view of the record, I can understand why at least some Notre Dame followers were so keen for continuation of the series."

Nebraska upset a number of Rockne's greatest teams. The Irish Brigade, featuring the Four Horsemen, was thrown twice in succession in 1922 and 1923 by the Huskers for the only defeats met in those years but the Stuhldreher-Miller-Crowley-Layden quartet got some revenge with a 34 to 6 victory in 1924. Nebraska then wound up the series by trouncing the Huskers, 17 to 0, in 1925.

The Huskers thus captured three of the last four games from the Irish in a four-year period in which the Rockne forces lost only one other contest, to the Army in 1925.

This column gave the erroneous impression, it is true, that Rockne was head coach in 1917, the year Jimmy Phelan captained the team. Rockne was an aide to Jess Harper that season before taking full command in 1918.

Both Pittsburgh and Southern California have the offensive stuff with which to strike hard, fast and often, which may produce a free-scoring melee when these football rivals meet in the mellow atmosphere of the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

Southern California ran up some tremendous scores during the season with sweeps that seemed irresistible once they got started. Notre Dame's air raid twice struck Notre Dame in the big battle at Chicago with "long-gainers" that produced touchdowns. Anything can happen with either Dufford or Saunders directing the attack. These two are as versatile as they come and Saunders' charge resembles the dash of a wild buffalo.

Pittsburgh likewise has all season possessed the habit of quickly demoralizing its foes. One of the pet Panther tricks is to shake Toby Hanna loose at the outset, usually on slants outside tackle. Toby is equally adept at dodging through a broken field or gridding passes.

It is a coincidence that the three West Pointers most conspicuous as head coaches in recent years all were on the same Army team in 1915. Two of them, Captain Bill Jones and Captain John McEwan, wind up four-year jobs with the close of 1929. Jones at West Point and McEwan at Oregon. The third, Major Bob Neyland, will continue at Tennessee, where his coaching has given the Volunteers the best record of any team in the country over the past five years.

St. Peter's defeated the Colonials by taking three straight games on St. Peter's alleys in a City League contest. Bruck did the best bowling having 500 pins to his credit. The score:

	St. Peter's.	Colonials.
Murray	156	182
Raible	156	114
J. Bruck	156	176
P. Spader	129	125
A. Smith	153	164

DAILY TALK

SUITABLE CROPS ON DAIRY FARMS

Corn, Alfalfa and Pasture Grass Most Suitable.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Corn, alfalfa, and pasture grass have proved to be the most profitable crops grown on the dairy experiment farms operated at Beltsville, Md., by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The bureau of dairy industry was a six-year rotation, three years alfalfa and three years corn. The pasture is comparatively permanent and does not enter into the rotation except at intervals.

T. E. Woodward, in outlining the rotation, says: "In changing from corn to alfalfa the ground is manured in the fall after the crop is removed for silage. The land is then plowed and left in the rough to allow pulverization by freezing. The alfalfa is sown about the first of April and produces two small cuttings the first year."

"In changing from alfalfa to corn the first cutting of alfalfa is removed the latter part of May; the ground is plowed, and corn is planted for silage. Manure is applied for each crop of corn except the one following the alfalfa, and in summer, when it cannot be used on the corn or alfalfa, it is placed on the pasture. Lime is applied every six years previous to sowing the alfalfa."

A mixture of six pounds of orchard grass, four of timothy, three of red-top, four of bluegrass, four of red clover, and two of alsike, sowed about April 1 on land that has been fall plowed and manured, provides pasture about June. If the first crop of newly sown alfalfa is weedy it is made into hay, but instead of giving it barn space it is stacked in the pasture, which is fenced so cows can eat it when pastures are short and dry.

Send Culled Spuds to Market in Cream Cans

Minnesota creameries will pay fair prices this fall for culled potatoes, providing they are first fed to cows and converted into dairy products. Careful analyses show that, pound for pound, potatoes have about the same feeding value as ordinary silage. Silage has 17.7 pounds of total digestible nutrients in a 100 pounds, while potatoes have 17.1 pounds.

Dr. C. H. Eckles, chief of the dairy division, University farm, St. Paul, warns against over-feeding potatoes, since it has been found that 20 to 25 pounds daily per cow are about all that can be fed to advantage. Where it is feasible to cook the potatoes, this is a good plan and cooked potatoes may be fed up to 30 or 35 pounds a day. Greater amounts result in giving the milk and butter a poor flavor and may cause indigestion.

Produce Clean Milk

According to M. J. Prucha of the University of Illinois in his recent bulletin issued by the University of Illinois College of Agricultural experiment station, the three most essential points in producing milk of low bacterial count are: The animal must be clean and free from dirt. The utensils that come in contact with the milk must be properly sterilized. The milk must be promptly cooled to a temperature of 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

Dairy Notes

Feeding dairy cows according to the amount of milk they produce is a profitable practice.

Silage made from corn fodder is not nearly so sour. It has a pleasant sweet smell, and the cows will like it and do well on it.

Entirely dry fodder will make good silage, but the water added should equal the fodder by weight. It should be tramped down thoroughly.

The best dairymen watch their cows very closely, weigh and test the milk, and feed each cow according to her capacity to respond to feeding.

Home-grown feed, good management, and cows bred for production is the combination that many are using in making profits from small herds.

Fodder silage not only makes better feed than dry fodder, but it is also more convenient to feed. Even though the corn fodder appears dry and wilted, the stalk will contain considerable moisture.

Ice water temporarily checks digestion, and for an hour or more will cause the cows to slobber. Such conditions decrease the milk flow because they interfere with the cow's digestive processes which must function properly in order to produce milk in maximum quantities.

If there is not enough moisture in the corn to pack the corn well in the silo, then additional water should be added. This may be fed to the silage in this way: the silage is thoroughly distributed the additional water.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Dec. 31.—The M. E. Church congregation is invited to join the Reformed congregation in a church night service at 8 o'clock in the Reformed Church hall this evening. An enjoyable program has been prepared.

Miss Elsie Townsend of Poughkeepsie is visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Mable, of Green street.

Miss Lillian Siskler is ill at her home on Broadway.

The Christmas party given by the members of Lucretia Rehearsal Lodge, No. 363, was greatly enjoyed by all who attended. Christmas carols were rendered by Miss Lillian Siskler, Mrs. Stephen Herlika and E. Slater, accompanied by Mrs. Charles Siskler. Readings by Mrs. Warren Mrs. Osborn, Mrs. Corbett and Mr. Van Aken were also enjoyed. Gifts were then exchanged, followed by a duet by Mrs. Herlika and Mr. Slater, after which delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Sickles spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Van Steenburgh of Shokan.

Miss Anne E. Short of Port Jervis is visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Short of Main street.

CHRISTMAS MUSIC FOR ST. JOHN'S CHILDREN

The Christmas festival for the members of the Church School of St. John's Church, Walter T. Elston, superintendent, was held Monday evening, beginning with a short service in the church. At the close of the service the parents and friends of the scholars followed them into the parish house where a beautiful lighted Christmas tree was in waiting. Here, too, was found Santa Claus—always such a splendid Santa Claus when impersonated by Arthur Lacey, as last evening—fast asleep, being pretty well tired out with his long trip and all the Christmas excitement.

It did not take Superintendent Elston long to awaken him, and right glad the old fellow was to find himself in St. John's Parish House. After the presentation of gifts to the Rev. W. Poyntell Kemper, the rector, to Sexton William Griffin and to Robert Williams, organist and choir master, a lovely little program was given by the little folks of the church school as follows:

"Welcome"..... Ruth Styles
Recitation—"Miss Sandy"..... Margaret Campbell.
Recitation—"At Christmas Time"..... Phyllis Craft.

Christmas Greeting, Margaret Shults
Recitation..... Robert Craft
Recitation..... Vera Mackey
Christmas Song..... Dorothy and Doris Frensdorf.

After the distribution of some of the gifts, recitation—David Mallow.

Then came the real fun of the evening, when Mr. Ransom of New York city, a very real and exceedingly clever magician, gave the large audience many puzzles in his exceedingly clever tricks of magic, including some from Dutchland, old Japan, India and the American Indian, and ending with the unfurling of a beautiful American flag from an impossible paper ladder.

After the magic stunt came a new and most thrilling version of the "Punch Family," a Punch and Judy show full of tragic thrills that brought forth shouts of laughter and his and ahs and subdued screams of astonishment. This also was given by Mr. Ransom, who was applauded to the echo. Of course he had to have the assistance of a number of times of the boys and girls.

After Santa's happy distribution of gifts the older boys and girls enjoyed a dance, having an excellent orchestra to the music of which they danced for some time.

Ulster Park W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the home of Mrs. P. Olin on Thursday afternoon, January 2, at 2:30 o'clock. The answer to roll call will be a Bible verse beginning with the letter "D."

GOLD IN A TURKEY'S CROP

(By M. J. Walsh.)

"C"OME here to this—wild country—for turkeys, but not a turkey hunter," cried the girl slowly, with something odd in her voice. "And you worked in a city market. Do you happen to know what a turkey crop is?"

Sam stared and his voice was fully as odd as hers as he replied: "Yes, why?"

She studied him for some moments, then nodded her head.

"Yes, I'll trust you," she decided. "You don't look like a thief. As I've heard my father say, suppose we lay our cards on the table."

She leaned her rifle against a tree, took a small bag from her pocket and opened and extended it for Sam's inspection.

"My name is Margaret Mease," she said.

The box was nearly full of various sized grains of pure gold.

Sam reached into his pocket and pulled out a buckskin bag, loosened the strings and passed it to her.

"Looks as if they came from the same turkey," he remarked, "and my name is Sam Holden. And I worked in the poultry section of the Chicago market."

"The girl peered into the bag. 'My! what a lot!' she exclaimed.

"Just four crops," Sam grinned.

"And you found them in the market and came straight here to seek gold by hunting turkeys?"

"No, just turkeys here, to get capital to seek gold at a place called Porcupine Hollow and along Sheep Range mountain. I've heard it's there."

"Strange how things come round," she said. "Father and I hunted turkeys at those places, Porcupine and Sheep Range, nearly three years ago. But turkeys were scarce and we finally drifted up here."

"Didn't see any signs of gold?" eagerly.

"No, and don't believe any gold is there. You see, we lost our home through—through debt. Then mother went to live with an uncle and father and I took to the woods. Father wasn't a bit well and I refused to leave him. He had to be out of doors and we drifted into turkey hunting by accident, because we found there was money in it."

"We had wonderful success here. I suppose we shipped those birds you found the gold in."

"You mean the gold came from here?" incredulously.

The girl nodded.

"But gold comes from rocky places, or in river sand washed down from such places."

"Maybe there are ledges under the surface of this flat scrub, or perhaps the gold washed here from elsewhere. Anyhow, it's here."

"You know where? If you do it's all yours, of course."

"I don't know any more than you—only suspect. You see, turkeys were too valuable for us to eat. We wanted to accumulate enough to buy back our home if we could. I had a few snares to catch rabbits and quail to supply our meat, and shipped all our turkeys away alive. It was only a month or so ago that I killed my first turkey. Father was sick and I wanted something extra good. I found the gold in that one's crop. Soon after we had to go away for a while, so we couldn't scratch for the gold. I got back only this morning."

"That's why I haven't seen either of you," commented Sam. "Well, I shall try to see your father tomorrow."

The girl picked up her rifle abruptly.

"I must be going now," she said in a low voice. "It's getting late. Good-night." Sam did not see her again until he was at the train the next day shipping twenty-four turkeys he had caught that morning. She slipped from the scrub as a lot of empties were being thrown from the train.

"Here you are," Sam called as he saw her, "about a dozen traps and more crates. You take 'em all. And I'm shipping off a dozen birds apiece. Been too busy to hunt gold. But I'll do that the rest of the day and keep it up."

"I've been hunting since daylight," said the girl wearily. "Not a vestige of color. And yet I know there is gold here, for that bird was caught with its crop full. But the scrub contains miles and miles of land alike."

"One of us will find it yet, all right," asserted Sam confidently, "even if we have to learn turkey language, and ask 'em."

The girl shook her head. "I shall stay here only two more days, for a last chance," she declared. "I shot the fateful turkey about two miles northwest from here, and have been all over that ground this morning. Turkeys travel a long way, though, and that one may have filled his crop miles away. I shall go back to the city."

"Then your father must be better. I'm glad of that. But I do hate the thought of your giving up the gold just when the scrub seems getting warmer."

"It might be a year, or ten, before it's found. And I've been here over two now. I couldn't stand any more. The eleven traps are all I can manage. You keep all yours." She picked up a trap in each hand and started for the scrub. Sam sprang forward.

"Let me carry them," he entreated. "Nonsense. They weigh only a few pounds apiece, you know. I can handle them easily."

He did not see her until into the second day. Most of the intervening time he had spent in gold-seeking, and was now over five miles from the railroad. At length, discouraged, he threw himself on the ground with a grunt of disgust.

"Feel as bad as that?" a girl's voice queried.

He peered round some shrubs. Margaret was sitting on the ground not ten feet away.

"Worse," he answered, as he rose and joined her. "I'm suppressing most of it. And I'm beginning to believe those birds must have made flying visits off to Sheep Range for the gold."

"No, it's here somewhere," she insisted. "Though I'm through. Look yonder!"

A rabbit, sitting a dozen feet away, regarded them wisely. Sam dropped a hand to the ground, and began to finger round for a small stone.

But as his hand rose, she clutched it frantically. "Oh, look! look!" she cried.

"At what, the rabbit?" that was scurrying away at sound of her voice.

"No, your hand."

He looked, and gasped. The stone was a piece of gold as large as a walnut.

"G-o-d-h!" he exclaimed. "I've heard the god fate is blind. I believe it now."

They were both on their feet by this time, their eyes searching the ground swiftly. Sam saw another nugget, smaller, glistening in the sun. Then the girl found three. In an hour they had a dozen or more each, some hardly large enough to be seen.

"Notice the long depression we're in," said the girl, as she straightened up and studied the surroundings thoughtfully. "I wouldn't wonder if it was some ancient river-bed. There are a lot of small sink-hole springs through the scrub. One near here. Perhaps it's a drinking place for turkeys, after which they peck about. The bits of gold attract their attention. Well, it's getting too dark to see, so I'll go on to camp."

"Not leaving in the morning, I suppose?" asked Sam, jocularly.

"Not for a few days," smiled the girl. "I shall be here at daylight."

"Find me right on the spot."

During the next two days they saw a good deal of each other, and at the end of it they met at the track, to flag the train when it should come. Each had a comfortable little buckskin bag filled with something, which each held carefully concealed, so it should not be conspicuous on the train.

Soon Sam began to look uneasy.

"Why doesn't your father come?" he asked at length. "Pretty near train time. He wouldn't want to be left. Shall I go and—"

"No, father is dead," the voice striving to keep from breaking. "He died
